Step 1: Prewriting (Think)	Step 2: Drafting (Write)	Step 3: Revising (Make It Better)	Step 4: Editing (Make It Correct)

- What do I want to say?
- How do I want to say it?
- Who will read my writing?
- What else do I need to know to begin?
- Who can I talk to about my ideas?
- Are my thoughts organized?
- Which ideas do I want to develop?
- Who can read this and offer suggestions?
- Have I read what I have written?
- Are my details clear?
- Should I add or take out parts?
- Have I used the best ideas and words?
- Is my writing in a sensible order?
- What suggestions have others made?

- Have I used complete sentences?
- Are my spelling, capitalization, and punctuation correct?
- Have I marked corrections that I need?
- Has someone checked my work?
- Do I have a correct and neat copy?
- Should I illustrate it and display it?
- Should I bind it in a book?
- Should I read it out loud?
- Can I place it in a classroom library?
- Will I act it out?
- Should I record myself telling my story and post it online?

Process the students' answer by discussing the steps using the table below. Emphasize that this will also be their guide/checklist as they write their composition.

STEP 1: PREWRITING (THINK)
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Decide on a topic to write about. • Consider who will read or listen to your written work. • Brainstorm ideas about the topic. • Use a graphic organizer (e.g. story map) to organize your ideas. • Do your research, if necessary. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do I want to say? • How do I want to say it? • Who will read my writing? • What else do I need to know to begin? • Who can I talk to about my ideas?
STEP 2: DRAFTING (WRITE)
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Write sentences and paragraphs even if they are not perfect. • Read what you have written and judge if it says what you mean. • Show it to others and ask for suggestions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are my thoughts organized? • Which ideas do I want to develop? • Who can read this and offer suggestions?
STEP 3: REVISING (MAKE IT BETTER)

- Read what you have written again.
- Think about what others said about it.
- Rearrange words or sentences.
- Delete, add, or change parts.
- Replace overused or unclear words.

- Have I read what I have written?
- Are my details clear?
- Should I add or take out parts?
- Have I used the best ideas and words?
- Is my writing in a sensible order?
- What suggestions have others made?

STEP 4: EDITING (MAKE IT CORRECT)

- Be sure all sentences are complete – have subjects and verbs.
- Correct spelling, capitalization, and punctuation.
- Change words that are not used correctly.
- Have someone check your work.
- Recopy it correctly and neatly.

- Have I used complete sentences?
- Are my spelling, capitalization, and punctuation correct?
- Have I marked corrections that I need?
- Has someone checked my work?
- Do I have a correct and neat copy?

STEP 5: PUBLISHING (SHARE THE FINISHED PRODUCT)

- Read your writing aloud to a group.
- Create a book of your work.
- Send a copy to a friend or relative.
- Put your writing on display.
- Illustrate, perform, or set your creation to music.

- Should I illustrate it and display it?
- Should I bind it in a book?
- Should I read it out loud?
- Can I place it in a classroom library?
- Will I act it out?
- Should I record myself telling my story and post it online?

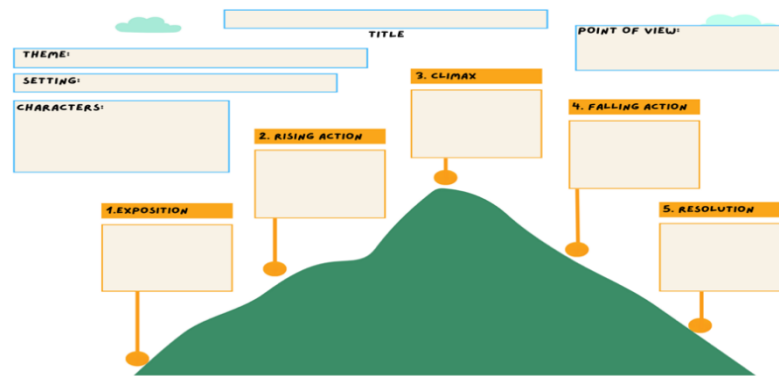

Day 2 - 3

ACTIVITY 1: Map it Out (Prewriting) (35 minutes)

After the discussion on the Steps of the Writing Process, present the Story Map worksheet. Explain how this will be used as part of the first step: Prewriting.

Before the students create their own story map, show how it is done using of the story, “We Filipinos are Mild Drinkers” by Alejandro R. Roces. This will help them see if they can identify the elements and picture out how this story map translates to a complete short story.

MY STORY MAP

Before revealing the answers, the following guide questions may be asked for each part of the plot:

Exposition:

- a. When and where did the story happen?
- b. How did the story begin?
- c. What was the character's situation in the beginning of the story?

Rising Action:

- a. What conflict/problem was encountered by the character(s)?

Climax:

- a. How did the character confront the problem?
- b. What is the turning point of the story?

Falling Action:

- a. How did the character solve the problem/conflict?
- b. What happened after the most intense part of the story?

Resolution:

- a. How did the story end?

ACTIVITY 2: STORY WRITING CHECKLIST (25 minutes)

Once all the answers are shown, present the Story Writing Checklist. Using this, they go over each item in the Self Evaluation and Peer Evaluation for Prewriting.

The activity may cover two sessions because students would need an ample time to think of a story and accomplish the map.

LESSON ACTIVITY: DRAFT IT UP! (25 minutes) Based on the story timeline, guide the students in writing the draft of the story. The first few parts may be directly shown to them and the rest may be done together with them. In the discussion, point out that the story timeline is a summary, while the draft is the longer version with added details, and dialogues between or among characters. Also point out how drafts are written in paragraphs and that the sentences should not necessarily be perfect.

	Story Timeline	Draft
	Exposition: In 1945, it was a common sight for Filipinos to see American soldiers who were subject to the influence of alcohol. One day, an American soldier named Joe asked a Filipino farmer where he could find a bar in the barrio.	It was the year 1945, when the Americans came back to the Philippines after World War II. In our barrio, it was common to see American soldiers who were drunk. One day, as I was working in the field, an American soldier passed by and asked, “Hey amigo, do you know any bars around here?”
	Rising Action: Because there were no bars in the barrio, the farmer invited Joe to his nipa hut and offered lambanog. Joe got drunk while the farmer didn’t.	“I’m sorry but there are no bars here, Joe.” “Do you know any place where I could get whiskey?” “There is none that I know of, Joe. We Filipinos don’t drink whisky. Why don’t you just go with me so I can offer you lambanog. It’s our local drink but I am not sure if you will like it.” Joe smiled and accepted my offer. So, I hurriedly attended to my carabao and got ready to go home.
	Climax: Since Joe was so drunk, he mistook the farmer as a Japanese soldier and the farmer’s mother as a kimono girl. She screamed, ran, and alarmed the people in the barrio.
	Falling Action: After the American soldier became delusional, he passed out.
